Patriot Day in the United States, observed on September 11th annually, honors the victims of the 9/11 terrorist attacks in 2001. On this day, the U.S. flag is flown at half-staff, and a moment of silence is observed at 8:46 a.m. (Eastern Daylight Time) to mark the time the first plane hit the World Trade Center. Americans are encouraged to display flags in remembrance. ~WIKIPEDIA

Pitru Paksha, also known as Shradh Paksha, is a 16-day period dedicated to worshipping ancestors in Hindu religion. During this time, people offer food and water to their deceased ancestors through priests or brahmins. ~<https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/>
