

Early Entry to Duncan School of Law History (BA)

The following guidelines shall govern the Early Entry Program to LMU Duncan School of Law for students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in History.

Overview: The Early Entry Program to LMU Duncan School of Law allows undergraduate students at Lincoln Memorial University to apply, be accepted to, and begin pursuing a JD at LMU Duncan School of Law (DSOL) prior to graduating with a Bachelor's Degree. Students admitted to DSOL under this program will be allowed to apply up to thirty (30) credit hours of LAW coursework to complete their elective and upper-division elective requirements of the Bachelor of Arts Degree.

Requirements of the History Early Entry Program: Students pursuing the Early Entry Program in History must meet the following criteria prior to being considered for acceptance to DSOL:

- A. Student shall have successfully completed 92 credit hours of undergraduate coursework.
- B. Student shall have successfully completed all requirements of the Lincoln Liberal Arts Core Curriculum (General Education requirements) as outlined in the catalog used for student's advisement (year of entry).
- C. Student shall have successfully completed all requirements of the History major as outlined in the catalog used for student's advisement.

Admission to Duncan School of Law: Students pursuing the Early Entry Program are not guaranteed acceptance to DSOL. All students must take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), apply to DSOL and meet all other admissions requirements except the completion of a Bachelor's Degree.

Completion of Bachelor's Degree: Upon acceptance to DSOL, the first thirty (30) credit hours of coursework shall, in addition to meeting any applicable requirements for the JD, be applied to the Elective and Upper-Division Elective requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree. Upon successful completion of thirty (30) hours of LAW coursework, student may apply for graduation and receive a Bachelor of Arts degree in History.

Early Entry Program Three-Year Plan: The Three-Year Plan for the Early Entry Program is a recommended plan of study for students entering LMU as first-time freshmen. It may require alteration based on students already having accumulated transfer and/or dual enrollment credit, or for students entering LMU with an Associate Degree. The requirements listed above continue to govern all such students.
