

Dr. Charles M. Hubbard

Charles M. Hubbard is Professor of History and Lincoln Historian at Lincoln Memorial University. He is also the Executive Director of the Abraham Lincoln Institute for Leadership and Public at the University. He is the author and editor of nine history books including Lincoln Reshapes the Presidency and The Burden of Confederate Diplomacy. Dr. Hubbard's numerous articles and essays have appeared in prominent academic Journals, including the Journal of American History and the Journal of Civil War Studies. His most recent essay, "King Cotton and Confederate Foreign Policy," was published by Routledge Press in 2014. Dr. Hubbard received his Ph.D. from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville with a specialization in American political and diplomatic history. He is a recipient of the John Nicholas Brown Fellowship from the Center for the Study of American Humanities at Brown University where he remains a fellow. In 2009 he was inducted into the Lincoln Academy as a Lincoln Laureate. He received the Lincoln Diploma of Honor in 2011 for his contributions to the field of Lincoln studies. Dr. Hubbard is a Senior Fulbright scholar and has received two Fulbright fellowships to research and study abroad. In 2005 Pres. George W. Bush appointed him to the Fulbright Foundation review board. In November of 2011 he received the prestigious Hay – Fulbright award from the U.S. State Department to deliver a series of lectures in the U.K. at King's College London and Corpus Christi College at Oxford. Dr. Hubbard was selected last year to deliver the keynote address at the Rothermere Institute for American Studies at Cambridge University. His latest book is a collection of essays entitled Lincoln-- The Law and Presidential Leadership slated for release in September 2015 by the University of Illinois Press.